FOR THE BEST NOMINATIONS.

Who the candidates on the Democratic ticket shall be this fall is a matter for the Democratic voters to decide. They ought to make their own selection through the delegates they send to the convention, and the will of the majority ought to be respected. The platform is an attempt on hand to control the convention, and the method is plain—a thing the Delegates should not permit. A ticket nominated in a straight way by the people would have a fair chance of election; any other will go down because it can not be representative of the people.

A good ticket can be nominated in one way only—by every Democratic voter attending the primary election and by exercising the greatest care in the selection of delegates. It is very important that delegates should vote the will of their constituents, and it is of the greatest moment, therefore, that men in whom dependence can be placed be selected. Representative Democrats will nominate a representative ticket which will receive the support of the Democratic voters.

The party must depend on its members. If they, each and every one, will give the attention to the party now given to the most trifling interests, the party will be strong for the future may be avoided. Let us then again urge the Democratic voters of Adams county to consider the success of the party and to put down all such practices as have heretofore done so much harm. Let us have a party Democratic not only in name, but in management. To do we need such a reorganization as that all who are concerned for the party's good can take part. Personal schemes and, above all, corrupt practices should be done away with to end that party management and party tickets may receive the endorsement and support of the Democratic voters.

The future of our party and the manager of political management in our county may depend a great deal on events near at hand. The Democratic party can regain its ascendancy in this county by a change for the better in its management. Let us not lose the opportunity by neglecting it, but let us rather determine now to make the party. All that is necessary is for the people to send the right kind of delegates to the convention. Be not deceived by false promises or doubtful professions of friendship.

AMERICAN FLAG.

It is announced that Mark Hanna, the chairman of the national Republican committee and general manager of Major McKinley's campaign, has invited Senator Quay of Pennsylvania, to accept the chairmanship of the national executive committee.

INTELLIGENT AND HONEST CONGRESSMEN.

Relative to the Fifty-fourth Congress, which adjourned work before last Hancock's Weekly has an interesting editorial. It is an admonition to the people to elect congressmen who shall be intelligent and honest in the administration of their offices. The Weekly says:

Although Congress refused to provide money for the public works, it did not have time to consider a bill for reforming the currency, and although it declined to relieve the Treasury, it had no time to consider a bill for spending money. It has been the most extravagant Congress that ever met.

The private pension bills are said to exceed in number those of any previous Congress, and the First-class pension bill, which never such a river and harbor bill, it provides for an ultimate expenditure of $75,000,000, and its authors were so weak that they did not insist on its incorporation, amounting to $10,000,000 for projects of which the engineers had not approved, and of $15,000,000 for schemes on which the engineers had reported that they were impracticable.

The expense of the remainder of the bill, this $12,000,000 will be abstracted from the public Treasury and wasted in fruitless efforts to secure the payment of contracts, which were favored by the contractors, but not the political g-men of the Congressmen at whose instance the various items constituting the enormous sum were inserted in the bill. The First-class pension bill, which was voted down on the revenue, but its veto was voted down with a crazy vote.

With this vote on the business interests of the country were suffered. When the session of Congress began there were signs and hope of a long-waited revival. But the days and weeks went by, and the signs of a long wait were evident that the very law-makers of the country were its most indolent and potent assailants, and business began to flag, trade was dead, and the banks and railroads were failing.

Finally it was seen that Congress, both by its inaction and by the folly of the men who had made a deficiency in the public service, had brought about the postponement of the settlement of the money question to the then doubtful action of the Presidential conventions.

At the close of the session, for basal year, amount to $150,000,000. The revenues may not exceed $400,000,000, so that Congress probably deserved a credit of more than $100,000,000. Even so, the public works bill, which was the creation of Mr. Carlisle as set forth in his report for last fall, was realized, the credit will exceed $100,000,000.

The New York Platform.

A Democratic national platform drawn up in accordance with the formal and emphatic declaration of the Standard, contained in the platform, is a document impossible as the financial bank of the Republicans, which declares for precisely the same thing—the gold standard until international arbitration has been established. The platform of the Standard, as adopted at Saratoga, is to our thinking somewhat too prolonged, and some of its statements will be called in question particularly that respecting the decline in value of the dollar, which is to be remedied by the United States and other countries.

But the platform declares an equally without straddling or evasion gold standard as essential to the protection of our nation's credit, the keeping intact of our public pledges, and the keeping intact of our country's honor. As far as international law is concerned, the element of which the platform declares that "all our efforts as a Government and as a people should be in good faith directed, and carried out, in a manner that will bring about a just and lasting peace."

THE MOTOR WAGON IDEA APPLIED TO FARMS.

The second motor carriage race of importance in this country was run from New York city to Irvington and return on May 30. All the leading motor wagons both from this country and abroad entered, and among them were two from the Duryea company, winners of the Chicago race last November. Their latest model does not differ materially in outward appearance from the old one, but has numerous improvements in both motor and running gear. The mechanism is entirely concealed from view, and aside from a heavy, solid appearance, the carriage looks much like an ordinary buggy minus the shafts. Entire control, both in speeding and steering, is exercised by a single lever, and the ease with which the wagon is turned, braked, or speeded almost surprising. A speed of from 25 to 30 miles per hour is easily obtained on a level road, and the tractive power for pulling off climbing is very great. Mr. J. F. Duryea is at present very much interested in the problem of the application of the motor to farm wagons and heavy wagons generally, and he is of the opinion that it is not only possible but probable that within a few years the horse will be largely superseded in this work. "It will be possible," he says, "for a farmer to do not only all his trucking and teaming, but on a stormy day he will have but to put his wagon into his barn, remove the motor covering, and he will have a stationary engine, capable of running his threshers, feed chopper, or whatever other machinery he may have." That is as practicable Mr. Duryea has ample proved by running his factory with one of his carriages during repairs to his power plant. He has already been approached by the manufacturers of a certain harvesting machine in regard to the feasibility of applying the motor thereto, and believes that the model may be so made as to be interchangeable, so that the farmer may use it on his wagon, thresher, or where he will.—*Ind. FEEDING YOUNG PIGS.

Most young pigs make very rapid growth the first two or three weeks of their life from sucking the sow. But after that time the pigs grow larger they require more, while the probability will be that the sow gives less milk than at first. If there are as many cows in the dairy as there are litters of pigs to be fed the dairy butter-makers can do a profitable business making pork. The skim milk will not be of itself enough to keep pigs in good health, out that with whey, linseed and linsed meal to make up for the lack of butterfat in the cream will keep the animals in fine and six months old pigs as they did while at the test. In fact, when feeding pigs we often thought that the growth of the pig from 50 to 150 pounds was more rapid than his growth before he had learned to eat and digest all kinds of food.—American Agriculturist.

WHEN the pasture is left to renew itself there will arrive a time when the best grasses will disappear and give place to those of coarse kinds. The latter will thrive where the former will die out, the plant food being insufficient for the kinds that disappear. Every fall the pasture should receive a dress of bone meal (in a very fine condition) to be followed early the next spring with potash in some form and also nitrate of soda. Lime is also excellent in the fall, but it is not sufficient fertilizer.

This fixed charges for the maintenance of an animal must be met under all circumstances and these charges are the same for a cow producing one pound of butter a week as for one which produces ten pounds. The larger the yield of product the smaller is the proportionate cost.

As a substitute for hay where the crop is short mutton may be sown now. It is a crop that produces well on rich land and also grows where grass will not thrive. It is one of the best weed destroyers that can be used, is a summer crop, and is highly relished by cattle and horses. Hungarian grass, which nearly resembles mutton, is also an excellent crop. It is not yet too late to seed down such crops but no delay should occur. Hungarian grass can be sown several times during the season.

Sixty suffer very much from ticks during warm weather, and they will not stop under such conditions, no matter how hot they may be. Dipping is the remedy and it should never be delayed. It is considered a disagreeable job, and especially during this busy period, but it must be done if the sheep are to be relieved of ticks.

A cow that is heated and worried will not milk well, and her milk will not make good butter.

If there is no shade in the pasture and the field is next to the woods, fence in an acre or two of the wood lot for a cow shade, it will pay.

Some farmers have a pasture near the barn to use as a night pasture. The soiling crop should be sown near the barn for convenience in feeding it.

Some of the county fairs propose to add to their attractions walking races for country horses. It is a good idea, as it is more important for the farm horse to cultivate a fast walk than a fast trot.

DAIRYING is like any other business; it must have certain requisites as capital to work with. Among these are good cows, good feed and a good feeder. These three make a whole team that will pull the outfit in any kind of times.

In pig feeding tests at the Vermont station, some skin-milk gave as good results as sweet, and three ounces of corn meal to a quart of milk made cheaper pork than any other feed, and the pigs ate as much as 12 quarts per day, per pig. The milk thus converted into pork brought 35 cents per 100 pounds. The pigs were sold when they averaged 250 pounds, but profit ceased after they passed 200.

There is money in buying a poor farm cheap and "bringing it up"; I am sure it has a faculty towards that end; but the majority will endeavor to crop their whole farms at once, while they and their families are still poor. It is far wiser for the owner to endeavor to produce some substance for himself and his stock, and devote all other effort to the remaining land.

One important advantage possessed by elvers, and which should give it a very high value, is that it is the large proportion of meat and other edible matter in its composition. As there is about one pound of lime in 10 pounds of elvers, or corn such foods are not the best for growing stock. Clover hay contains from 1 to 7 percent of mineral matter and corn about 11 percent, which must not be overlooked as it is the mineral matter that produces bone.
